Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Investment Objectives and Strategies

Primerica Canadian Balanced Growth Fund (the “Fund”) seeks long-term capital growth by investing, directly or indirectly through other mutual funds, in Canadian, U.S. and other international equity and fixed income securities. Currently, the Fund aims to maintain approximately 80% of its portfolio in mutual funds that hold equity securities and 20% of its portfolio in mutual funds that hold fixed income securities. The underlying mutual funds (“Underlying Funds”) in which the Fund invests are selected from the AGF Group of Funds managed by AGF Investments Inc. (“AGF”).

PFSL Fund Management Ltd. (“PFSL”) retains the services of a portfolio adviser in determining the Fund’s portfolio allocations. Specifically, PFSL has retained TELUS Health Investment Management Ltd., formerly LifeWorks Investment Management Ltd. (“THIM”). THIM functions as the portfolio adviser, recommending asset mix and investment selection decisions for the Fund. PFSL has also retained AGF to act as an additional portfolio adviser of the Fund, as described herein.

Risk

The risks of investing in the Fund remain as described in the Fund’s Simplified Prospectus. The Fund also continues to be suitable for investors with a long-term horizon who are seeking capital growth and have a medium tolerance for risk.

Results of Operations

The Fund, for the full calendar year ending December 31, 2023, underperformed its blended benchmark posting a return of +7.5%, whereas the blended benchmark posted a return of +12.8%. The blended benchmark is comprised of the following: 45% S&P/TSX Composite Index, 25% MSCI World Index, 20% Bloomberg Barclays Canadian Aggregate Bond Index, 5% MSCI Emerging Markets Index and 5% Bloomberg Barclays Canadian Aggregate 1-3 Year Index.

The Underlying Funds invested in by the Fund on December 31, 2023, consisted of (listed in descending order of weight): 30.5% AGF Canadian Dividend Income Fund, 10.1% AGF Canadian Growth Equity Class, 9.9% AGF Global Dividend Fund, 9.9% AGF Global Select Fund, 9.0% AGF Fixed Income Plus Fund, 7.7% AGF Emerging Markets Fund, 5.0% AGF Canadian Small Cap Fund, 5.0% AGF Total Return Bond Fund, 3.9% AGF Global Corporate Bond Fund, 3.5% AGF American Growth Fund, 3.5% AGF U.S. Sector Class, and 2.0% AGF Emerging Markets Bond Fund.

In 2023, global markets rebounded robustly from the prior year's correction, with a notable rebound within equities, predominantly led by developed markets. U.S. equities were the top performing market primarily due to stellar performance coming from the Information Technology sector, while emerging markets lagged developed markets. Despite markets facing challenges including rising interest rates, the U.S. banking crisis and complications with the U.S. debt ceiling, markets thrived on investor optimism. Investor optimism was driven by excitement around artificial intelligence related companies, easing inflation, the resilience of the North American economy, strong corporate earnings, and a significant decline in yields in the fourth quarter.

Fixed income indices, both domestic and non-domestic, also posted positive returns, though they underperformed equity markets over the period. Government bonds yield curves remained inverted at year-end in Canada and U.S. as short-term yields increased while long-term yields ended 2023 at slightly lower levels.

Returns of the blended benchmark components for the calendar year ending December 31, 2023, were: S&P/TSX Composite Index Return +11.8%, MSCI World Index +21.8%, Bloomberg Barclays Canada Aggregate Bond Index +6.5%, MSCI Emerging Markets +7.9%, and Bloomberg Barclays Canadian Aggregate 1-3 Year Index Return +3.9%. All benchmark returns are reported on a gross basis in Canadian dollars.

The Fund's Performance Drivers:

Performance of the Underlying Funds relative to their benchmark was significantly negative in 2023. The largest detractors from the Underlying Funds for the period ending December 31, 2023, included AGF Global Select Fund and AGF Global Dividend Fund.

AGF Global Select Fund and AGF Global Dividend Fund underperformed their benchmark. While the MSCI World index was up by +21.8%, AGF Global Select Fund and AGF Global Dividend Fund both returned +7.7%. These two global equity Funds held relatively stable and non-cyclical stocks or being underweight in growth sectors, which did perform well in the down-market of 2022, but under-performed in 2023 as the market favored higher growth and cyclical stocks such as information technology related companies. Particularly, the underweighting of the seven U.S. mega cap stocks was the biggest factor in the drag on the two AGF global equity Funds performance.

AGF Canadian Dividend Income Fund slightly underperformed its benchmark, the S&P/TSX Composite Index, posting 8.8% compared to the index's 11.8%, but it notably impacted the Fund's overall performance, given the substantial position in the AGF Canadian Dividend Income Fund. This underperformance was mainly due to negative security selection within the Information Technology, Utilities and Consumer Staples sectors, while partially offset but sector allocation decisions.

AGF Emerging Markets Fund, also underperformed its benchmark, due to security selection and country allocation, and was a detractor to Fund performance. The Fund returned -3.1% while the MSCI Emerging Markets Index returned 7.9%. During the reporting period, Fund performance was negatively impacted by unfavorable security selections in China, Brazil, and Taiwan, along with an overweight allocation to Hong Kong, a lack of exposure to Mexico, and underweight in Taiwan.

On the fixed income side, largest detractors were AGF Total Return Bond Fund and AGF Global Corporate Bond Fund. AGF Total Return Bond Fund underperformed its blended benchmark over the period, returning +3.3% vs its blended benchmark return of +9.0%. Underperformance of the AGF Total Return Bond Fund was mostly due to underweight allocation to high yield corporate bonds and overweight allocation to sovereign bonds.

AGF Global Corporate Bond Fund also underperformed its benchmark i.e. the Bloomberg U.S. Corporate High-Yield Bond Index, returning +4.2% vs +11.0% respectively, due to its more conservative positioning, including a focus on higher quality within high yield bonds, some investment grade bond exposure, and a shorter duration relative to the benchmark.

Asset allocation decisions in 2023 yielded overall positive results for the Fund. Largest contributors included an overweight position in U.S. equities and an underweight position in Canadian short-duration fixed income. This strategic positioning leveraged the strong momentum in the U.S. equities market and tapped into the recovering sentiment overall. The S&P 500 Index (up by 23.0%) outperformed the MSCI World Index, and the Bloomberg Barclays Canadian Aggregate 1-3 Year Index (+3.9%), which represents the short-duration fixed income portion, underperformed all other major global equity indices as well as the Fund's blended benchmark.

However, these gains were offset by an underweight position in global equity, which outperformed the Fund's benchmark, and the exposure to Canadian small cap equities. Small cap equities notably underperformed all other equity indices, posting a return of 4.8% over the period. The S&P/TSX Small Cap Index, representing Canadian small-cap stocks, lagged behind the S&P/TSX Composite Index, which represents Canadian large-cap stocks, primarily due to significant underperformance in the Real Estate, Energy, and Information Technology sectors, along with a considerably larger allocation in the poorly performing Materials sector.

Overall, asset allocation decisions within Fixed Income contributed positively to the Fund, especially maintaining an underweight position in Canadian fixed income. Emerging markets debt, U.S. high yield, and global high yield indices significantly outperformed the Bloomberg Barclays Canadian Aggregate Bond Index (6.5%). Specifically, the emerging markets debt, U.S. high yield, and global high yield indices posted 10.3%, 11.0%, and 11.6%, respectively.

Recent Developments

THIM has a tactical asset class allocation strategy of smaller-magnitude and more frequent touchpoints with the Underlying Funds in order to reposition the asset mix as necessary. Updates to the THIM's forward-looking capital market assumptions led to asset mix changes that the Fund implemented in January 2023.

Global Macro-Economic Backdrop:

In 2023, global markets recuperated from the sell-off experienced in 2022, with a particularly notable rebound in global equities, led by U.S. equities. Despite confronting a multitude of challenges - including interest rate hikes by central banks in most developed countries (except for Japan), steadily climbing yields, a banking crisis in the U.S. (regional banks) and Europe (Credit Suisse), complications with the U.S. debt ceiling, and ongoing geopolitical turmoil - there was a surge in optimistic sentiment.

This optimism was primarily fueled by the resilience demonstrated by global economies and robust corporate earnings in the first half of the year. In the third quarter, market sentiment experienced a temporary shift due to concerns over enduring higher yields, rise in oil prices and strong economic data. However, markets eventually rallied, concluding the year strongly, buoyed by subsiding inflation and a marked decrease in global yields, as investors have started expecting potential interest rate cuts in 2024.

Equity markets exhibited exceptional performance over the year, with some major indices recording gains exceeding 20%. This was notably driven by the substantial returns of the 'Magnificent 7', which denote the seven largest U.S. technology companies: Alphabet Inc., Amazon.com Inc., Apple Inc., Meta Platforms Inc., Microsoft Corp., NVIDIA Corp., and Tesla Inc. The S&P/TSX Composite Index registered an 11.8% gain for the year, benefiting from macroeconomic tailwinds in Canada. However, Information Technology and a heavy weighting in the Energy sector were detractors. The latter was negatively impacted by the decline in oil prices during the period.

Developed markets significantly outperformed emerging markets, as the MSCI World Index returning 21.8% compared to the 7.9% for the MSCI Emerging Markets Index. This divergence can be attributed to capital flowing into developed markets, driven by heightened uncertainties, and to China's underwhelming economic performance following its post-COVID reopening. While the Chinese economy showed some resilience, driven by government stimulus measures, this positive aspect was overshadowed by persistent turbulence in the real estate market, a significant source of concern for investors.

Growth investment style, and particularly the Information Technology sector led the rally within the equities markets. Conversely, Utilities and Consumer Staples sectors, both stable and cyclical sectors, were the worst performers, along with the Energy sector.

As a reminder, asset mix changes implemented in the Fund during 2021-23 were attempts to neutralize style bias, by balancing growth and value strategies. This approach aims to make Fund performance less dependent on changing market conditions.

On the fixed income side, investor concerns centered around persistent inflation and restrictive monetary policies until the end of the third quarter, as central banks across the globe enacted policy rate hikes in a unified effort to combat inflation. Approaching year-end, a notable shift occurred when central banks started to adopt a more accommodative tone in their communications, leading to a change in market sentiment and anticipation of potential interest rate cuts in 2024. This shift contributed to a sharp decrease in bond yields. Overall, fixed income indices concluded the year in positive territory.

Throughout the period, yield curves in both Canada and the U.S. experienced a slight steepening, characterized by an increase in short-term yields while yields of longer-term bonds were slightly lower. In the credit market, both high yield and investment grade segments saw outperformance compared to sovereign bonds, driven by robust corporate earnings and the resilience of the global economy.

Implications on Fund and Changes in 2023

In 2023, as part of ongoing efforts to optimize the Fund's asset mix and to ensure better-in-class Underlying Fund selection, additional changes were implemented. These changes included a reduction in AGF Emerging Markets Fund and corresponding re-allocation to AGF American Growth Fund. Benchmark relative overweight exposure to emerging markets was reduced to add a targeted exposure to the U.S. equity market to achieve broad based regional diversification within equities. AGF American Growth Fund was a new component to the Fund and was selected for its strong peer relative track record and to further neutralize the Fund's style bias as it complements existing components. Additionally, such change reduced a key detractor to Fund performance, while adding a more efficient position. On the fixed income side, exposures to AGF Emerging Markets Bond Fund were reduced and reallocated to AGF Total Return Bond Fund.

As reviewed above, decreasing the Emerging Equity market position, and increasing the U.S. Equity market exposure was beneficial to the Fund, as the S&P 500 was the top performing index and the MSCI Emerging Markets Index lagged behind other international indices. However, AGF American Growth Fund has underperformed the S&P 500 Index in 2023, due to an underweight position in the Information Technology sector and particularly not holding most of the Magnificent seven information technology stocks mentioned above, as well as some negative selection in the Communication Services, Utilities and Materials sectors. We continue to view AGF American Growth Fund as a better in class U.S. equity Fund.

Changes made to the fixed income portion yielded slightly negative results. Specifically, the AGF Emerging Markets Bond Fund (6.4%) outperformed the AGF Total Return Bond Fund (3.3%) over the period, even though the blended benchmarks of both Funds reported similar returns (8.6% and 9.0%, respectively).

We remain confident in the Fund's current positioning. While the AGF American Growth Fund, AGF Global Select Fund, and AGF Global Dividend Fund didn't capitalize on the Information Technology sector rally, they are well-positioned to benefit from the revival of other sectors, as evidenced by recent market trends.

With continuing concerns of an economic slowdown and global monetary policy uncertainties, enhanced diversification and a focus on high-quality investments are expected to provide advantages for the Fund.

In light of the rapidly changing macroeconomic conditions, THIM in conjunction with PFSL and AGF, continues to monitor the Fund's asset mix and implement asset allocation decisions. Decisions continue to be reviewed and approved on a quarterly basis, with any asset mix rebalancing occurring as necessary to better position the Fund. There continues to be in-depth and ongoing discussions on the exposures and investments in the Fund, in order to best position the asset mix.

Russia- Ukraine Exposure in the Fund:

The Fund has insignificant exposure to Russia through AGF Emerging Markets Fund. Although those positions lost most of their market values, the impact on the Fund is marginal. Due to sanctions/bans and/or exchanges remaining closed, these marginal positions are static. A further update will be provided if and when Russia trading bans are lifted.

Explanatory notes:

- (1) This information is derived from the Fund's audited annual financial statements.
- (2) Net Assets and distributions are based on the actual number of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase (decrease) from operations is based on the weighted average number of units outstanding over the financial period.
- (3) Distributions were reinvested in additional units of the Fund or paid in cash.
- (4) The per unit financial information is based on prescribed regulations and as a result, is not expected to add down due to the increase (decrease) from operations being based on the weighted average units outstanding during the period and the distributions being based on actual units outstanding at the relevant point in time.
- (5) This information is provided as at December 31 of the year shown.
- (6) The management expense ratio is based on the total expenses (excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) of the Fund and the Underlying Funds for the year, expressed as an annualized percentage of the average daily net asset value of the Fund during the period.
- (7) Where applicable, PFSL waived certain fees or absorbed certain expenses otherwise payable by the Fund. Absorption amounts are determined annually at the discretion of PFSL and can be terminated at any time.
- (8) The Fund did not directly incur any brokerage commissions or other portfolio transaction costs during the year. The trading expense ratio represents the proportion of total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs of the Underlying Funds applicable to the Fund expressed as an annualized percentage of the average daily net asset value of the Fund during the period.
- (9) The Fund's portfolio turnover rate ("PTR") indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio adviser manages its portfolio investments. A PTR of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities once in the course of the year. The higher a fund's PTR in a year, the greater the trading costs payable by the fund in the year, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the year. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a fund.
- (10) All figures presented in the tables are prepared in accordance with IFRS Accounting Standards.

How the Fund has performed in the past does not necessarily indicate how it will perform in the future.

Commissions, trailing commissions, management fees and expenses all may be associated with mutual fund investments. Please read the Simplified Prospectus before investing. The indicated rates of return are the historical annual total returns including changes in unit value and reinvestment of all distributions and does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution or optional charges or income taxes payable by any securityholder that would have reduced returns. Mutual funds are not guaranteed, their values change frequently and past performance may not be repeated. The rate of return is used only to illustrate the effects of the growth rate and is not intended to reflect future values of the mutual fund or returns on investment in the mutual fund.

The payment of distributions should not be confused with a fund's performance, rate of return or yield. If distributions paid by the fund are greater than the performance of the fund, your original investment will shrink. Distributions paid as a result of capital gains realized by a fund, and income and dividends earned by a fund are taxable in your hands in the year they are paid. Your adjusted cost base will be reduced by the amount of any returns of capital. If your adjusted cost base falls below zero, you will have to pay capital gains tax on the amount below zero.
